A similar incident occurred in Fernie one day last week (August 1957) when Percy Starr accompanied by his son Duane, and Ed Gotzy sighted an identical object crossing the valley beyond Hosmer. Mr. Starr said he at first thought that what he saw was a large butterfly outside the car window but suddenly realized that it was a large object in the air some miles distant. The three watched the object disappear behind Hosmer Mountain and reappear seconds later to the west of the mountain where it hovered for several seconds before rising directly upwards at terrific speed and disappearing from view. The phenomenon as described by those who witnessed it was identical both as to appearance and action to the objects observed last year, which are now admitted by scientists and governments to be more than mere figments of imagination.
